ECC Board Elections To Be Held at Annual Dinner

At the next general meeting we will have elections for the Eastlake Community Council Board of Directors. We do this every year at our annual pot luck dinner. Come join us, meet your neighbors, and perhaps run for the ECC Board.

The ECC Board has at least seven members and often more, depending on how many people want to join the fun. Anyone who runs a business or who simply lives in Eastlake-- renter, homeowner, or houseboat dweller --all are eligible. We meet one evening a month to examine the latest government policy proposals in the context of our neighborhood, and to talk with architects and investors about their ideas for building projects in Eastlake. We also plan social events for the community, like last year's party to celebrate the demise of the Roanoke Reef, share news about Eastlake and other neighborhoods, hear from speakers on a variety of issues, and generally relax in the company of good neighbors. Though the board discussions revolve around business items, it is no less a goal for us to enjoy ourselves at the same time.

The ECC Board is composed of five officers, and two or more members-at-large. The President is the head honcho and chief bottle washer. He or she gets to tell the rest of the board what to do and where they can go, keeps things somewhat organized, and sees to it that the community is informed and involved on the issues. Other officers are Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Historian. If you're interested in becoming a ECC Board member or officer, Call Fred Kempe at 322-2221.
