EASTLAKE COMMUNITY COUNCIL

P.O. BOX 4101

SEATTLE, WASH. 98104

NEW EASTLAKE BOARD ELECTED

The Eastlake Community Council had its official new year's kickoff May 21st, with a potluck dinner, board elections, and special community service awards presentation. Although that's a good six months prior to Auld Lang Syne's time, the new year's meeting was nevertheless full of celebration for all who attended. Why in May? Well, the council normally goes through a summer reorganization phase for the upcoming year. It gives the outgoing board members a chance to reflect upon their year's efforts, while having the opportunity to lend direction to new members coming in.

Held at St. Patrick's church, community members had a chance to mingle and converse over a feast of good food and drink, while also taking care of business at hand.

John Recht, 1980 ECC President, took the reins as emcee for the event, subject, of course, to a bit of "roasting." He recapped the year's events, and gave views of goals and the future happenings for the community. John's efforts will be long remembered in Eastlake and we congratulate him on his new post as President of Central Seattle's Community Council Federation.

Community Service Awards were presented for service above and beyond the call of duty to:

Ed and Emily Upton of G & H Printing & to

Al Bumgardner, Architect,
Bumgardner Partnership

Last, but not least, came the long awaited Officer and Board elections. Welcome the following new officers and board members:

President - Fred Kempe
Vice-Pres. - Bob Virkelyst

August 11 from 7:30 to 9:30 PM
at Seward School, MEETING!!!

As you may know the City is in the process of rewriting the land use policies for the City. The single family and multi-family policies are completed, and they are now starting on mixed use and business areas. The Eastlake Technical Advisory Committee (TAC), Eastlake Community Council & Floating Homes Association are sponsoring a meeting to discuss what we would like to see for the future of Eastlake Avenue. We strongly encourage everybody to come with their ideas for Eastlake Avenue. NOW is the time to get in early in the planning process. If you have questions or can't attend the meeting but are interested in participating, contact Beth Means at 325-5139. The meeting will include a slide show, a questionnaire and small group discussion.

CENTRAL SEATTLE COMMUNITY COUNCIL
FEDERATION

On May 28th The Central Seattle Community Council Federation elected a new batch of officers, including one from our neighborhood. The Eastlake Community Council's latest ex-President, John Recht, was out of office for only one week before he took up a gavel again as CSCCF President. The rest of the Federation slate included Madrona resident Anne Bernstein, Vice-President; Leschi resident John Barber, Treas.; and Mount Baker resident Jane Skrivan, Secretary.

During the past two years, CSCCF has multiplied its efforts to help our neighborhoods unite to face the pervasive and bewildering problems which threaten the quality of life in Seattle. Through issue-oriented committees in areas such as Land Use, Transportation, Housing, Schools and Energy/Utilities/Community Technology, The Federation has brought together active people who want to help solve Seattle's problems. If this sounds up your alley, write or call CSCCF's Executive Director, Allan Davis, at 4710 University Way NE, Seattle 98105, telephone 522-8507.
